

projects

new mexico state university arts complex

Client: New Mexico State University

Location: Las Cruces, New Mexico

Project Type: Renovation and Expansion

LEED® Status: Pursuing LEED® Gold

Seat Count: 450 Seat Proscenium Theater, 250 Seat Black Box Theater

Construction Cost: $37.5 Million

Architect: Holzman Moss Architects

Theatre Consultant: Theatre Projects Consultants

Contact: Malcolm Holzman | Holzman Moss Architects | 212.465.0808

AD Scope: Acoustics | Audio | Video

New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, is planning a new Arts Complex that will bring dance, theater, music and media arts into an architecturally-unified zone on campus, while engaging and encouraging community involvement. Phase I will be located adjacent to the Music Building to begin the development of a collaborative arts complex on the campus at the heart of the campus' academic core. The facility will also front University Avenue, providing needed economic support for an improved town-and-gown seam connecting the campus and its host community of Las Cruces and southern New Mexico.

It is anticipated that this phase will be approximately 100,000 sf with a large performance hall to seat between 900 and 1,200 people, a drama/screening/dance theater to seat between 300 and 500 people, a studio or "black box" theater and gallery space. Phase I will also include support spaces including dressing rooms, green room, scene shop and other "back house" facilities.

ACOUSTIC DIMENSIONS